Youths Fined On Narcotics Charges

Waveland Police Justice Lucien Gex, Jr. imposed fines and warnings last week on two youths arrested on narcotics charges and delayed hearing for the second time on two others by their request.

Truman Schultz, 20, and Charles J. Debenport, 18, were arrested December 10 and charged with possession of marijuana. In the January 4 hearing, Schultz pled nolo contendere to the charge of possession of marijuana and guilty to an additional charge of speeding. Arresting officer Eugene Hughes testified that Schultz was driving 45 miles an hour in a 25 mile zone.

Debenport at first entered a plea of not guilty to the narcotics charge, but changed his plea to guilty after Gex explained the ramifications of legal procedures. Both youths were fined $250 plus court costs or five days in jail. Each was granted a delay in execution until Saturday. The charge of speeding against Schultz was dismissed with a warning as it was his first such offense, Gex said.

Linda Serio, 18, and a 17-year-old female companion were given a stern warning by the judge against undesirable associations. Gex told the two girls, who were with Debenport and Schultz when they were arrested and had been called to court as witnesses, that they obviously didn't have the moral courage or good sense to not consort with those who deal in narcotics.

"I don't think you realize how lucky you were that you weren't arrested," Gex told the two young women, and added that he was tempted to refer them both to Youth Court authorities. Turning to Debenport and Schultz he promised their second arrest in his court would bring a mandatory jail sentence. Eventually they will get caught again, Gex said, and he would then make good his promise.

Theresa Canavan and John Cramer, both 21, arrested November 24 on charges of possession of marijuana and paraphernalia, appeared on a delayed hearing January 4. Following a report from the Jackson crime lab, their charges were changed to possession of less than one ounce of marijuana and paraphernalia. Their request was granted for an additional week's delay in hearing to get a lawyer.

ANDRE ARCENEAUX has authorized The Sea Coast Echo to announce that he is a candidate for re-election to the office of Commissioner of Finance for the city of Bay St. Louis.

Supervisors Open Bids For County Road Work

A large crowd of bid contenders filled the meeting room when bids were opened for construction of a new Rotten Bayou bridge as well as bids for resealing 21.58 miles of state aid roads throughout the county.

B.L. Broome, State Aid Road Division engineer officiated at the bid openings with county engineer Larry Seal.

Of only two bids submitted for the resealing project, Dixie Paving Co. of Columbia, Miss. was low bidder with a total price of $66,019.08. Bush Construction Co. submitted a bid of $67,958.76 for the job.

On the Rotten Bayou bridge project, H.E. Wilson Contractor, Inc. of Long Beach was low bidder with a total bid price of $81,801.88. Also submitting bids were Tanner Equipment Co., Waynesboro, whose bid of $72,891.80 was close to that of Pigford Bros., Inc.,

Meridian who bid $72,627.34. The fourth and highest bid of $81,298.70 was submitted by L&A Contracting Co. of Hattiesburg.

Broome stated that work could begin on the Rotten Bayou bridge within 10 days after signing the contract, which calls for completion in 45 working days.

In other business, Edward E. Breland approached the board with a request for supervisors to consider the county school system in allocations of recently acquired federal revenue-sharing funds. A new sewer digestive plant is badly needed at Hancock North Central School, Breland said, and estimated cost of $50,000 for a new plant is out of reach for the school system. Apparently unsympathetic to the appeal, supervisors said tentative plans for disbursement of the money precluded any portion to the county schools.

Bay St. Louis attorney Walter

Phillips, representing Eljer Plumbing Co., asked the board to consider tax exemption privileges for the new enterprise, located in the plant formerly occupied by the now defunct Rittner Industrial Enamelling Co. George Heltzmann, county tax assessor-collector, said that the 10-year tax exemption period set for the Rittner property expired in December although there is some time left on new structures built by the defunct company.

Phillips based his request on the basis that Eljer is a totally new and different company from Rittner and is therefore eligible for a new 10-year exemption. Supervisors expressed reluctance to grant the exemption as they maintained that the new company is operating in the same plant and using the same machinery. After some discussion a motion was passed to grant a temporary exemption pending an opinion from the state attorney general.

School Board Continues Battle Over Day Care Staff Selection

A series of pitched battles at a Monday night meeting of the county school board marked a second abortive attempt by Superintendent Kenneth McCarty to secure board acceptance of proposed staff workers for the two Day Care Centers under Title IV-A subsidy. The matter got off to a rocky start when the list of 11 names was passed around the meeting table for board approval and with one or two exceptions, was essentially the same list which the board had refused to accept at a January 2 meeting. Trustee Lamar Lee voiced the first objection by saying that he was under the impression that those women most in need of employment would be given priority consideration for the jobs of teachers, teachers aids, cooks and bus drivers.

Lee's contention that there were other women in the community more in need of the jobs whose names weren't on the list touched off a response from board members John Banks and Tommy Shaw who questioned the manner of selection of the center staffs.

When McCarty testily accused the two men of bringing politics into the matter, Banks and Shaw agreed that politics did play a large part in school matters - "Your politics," Shaw said to McCarty - and that was what they were trying to eliminate.

Board President Horace Davis interrupted the heated discussion by asking for votes on each staff member individually, rather than a blanket vote which had failed at the last meeting.

Davis called out the following names and positions for the Clermont Harbor center: Mrs. Gayle Ladner, teacher; Mrs. Barbara Ladner, Mrs. Shirley Acker and Mrs. Janette Seals, teacher's aids; Mrs. Dupont, cook; and Mrs. Margaret Cuevas, janitor and bus driver.

In each case, a motion for acceptance by Eric Larsen died for lack of a second. The same response prevailed as Davis read the following list for the Kiln Center: Mrs. Bob McQueen, teacher; Mrs. Neida Gay Ladner, Mrs. Barbara Cameron and Mrs. O.V. Bond, teacher's aids; Mrs. Melva Necaise, bus driver and janitor.

At one point, obviously agitated by the board's recalcitrance, McCarty interjected, "You fellows don't want this program! You better accept this tonight or tomorrow its gone." He threatened to call Jackson and cancel the program in reprisal.

Another battle ensued when Banks attempted to explain his stand on the matter, saying that he had no objections to the proposed staff personally as in his opinion they were all qualified for the jobs. His primary objections were to Mrs. McCarty being named administrator of the program and to the manner in which the program was set up. When Banks asked McCarty what salary his wife was to receive as administrator McCarty answered only that she had taken a cut in pay for the position.

Shaw then accused the superintendent of reneging on promises of employment to certain women and ratified Banks' implication of unfairness and possible nepotism in the selection of the staffs.

McCarty established an autocratic principle of operation by angrily stating that he alone would run the school system in the way he wanted.

Banks then turned to the matter of Mrs. Susan Ellzey, formerly Title III-ESEA curriculum coordinator at Hancock North Central who had been relieved of her duties by principal Mrs. Mildred Ramond. Davis told the board that Mrs. Ellzey had been transferred to Gulfview School by her own request and that she had agreed to a concurrent reduction in salary. Davis added that he had requested a letter from Mrs. Ellzey stipulating that the transfer and salary decrease were by her agreement. Board attorney Rhbie Griffin suggested that a new contract was in order for the young educator, who is completing work on a Ph. D in early childhood education.

Another verbal skirmish erupted between McCarty and Banks prompting Davis to bring the meeting to an abrupt close. The meeting was recessed until January 18 at 8:30 a.m.

McCullough Retained As School Superintendent

The Board of Trustees of the Bay-Waveland Municipal Separate School District voted unanimously Monday night to retain J.D. McCullough as superintendent of the school system, with a contract renewal through June 30, 1975.

McCullough, who has served as superintendent for 15 consecutive years, told the board, "I appreciate the confidence the board has expressed in me by extending my contract. I hope I can always justify that confidence."

McCullough said later that he was the second of only two superintendents the city school system has had over the past 45 years. Affiliated with the city school system for a total of 18 years, McCullough was high school principal for the first three years of his tenure before being named superintendent.

In an unrelated matter, the board heard a report from architect Fred Wagner on safety conditions of the band room at the Bay Junior High School, over which there has been increasing criticism and concern lately.

At the Monday night meeting, Wagner reiterated his earlier statement that, in his opinion, the room situated on the third floor of the building was structurally sound and that continued use for band practice purposes would not endanger the students. Wagner said he would be willing to make another inspection of the room with Bay Fire Chief Richard Fayard to determine any fire hazards involved.

The feasibility of constructing fire escapes from the band room as opposed to relocating the practice room altogether was discussed as Wagner stated that he felt it would be more feasible economically to find other quarters for the band than to incur the expense of fire escapes for the one room.

The board delayed action on the matter pending an inspection report from Wagner and Chief Fayard.

McCullough reported on progress of

Grand Jury Indicts Six

Eight indictments were handed down by the grand jury last night after a three-day session in which 28 witnesses were examined involving 11 cases.

The eight indictments were brought against six men all of whom are either in jail or out on bond. Named by the grand jury were: Francis Page, Waveland resident on two separate charges, burglary and larceny of Waveland Lumber Co. and burglary and larceny of the dwelling of Robert Hubbard; Russell Lamar Davis, Mobile, Ala., charged with the Nov. 1972 kidnapping of a Bay St. Louis girl and grand larceny involving automobile theft; John Robert Gordon, burglary and larceny of the Waveland dwelling of Earl Couch Dec. 1972.

Also indicted on one count each were Raymond L. Taranto, for unlawful production of a controlled substance in the Catahoula community; George Garcia, arrested Aug. 1972 for possession of a controlled substance with intent to deliver or sell 100.5 grams of marijuana; Cecil A. Roberts, charged Dec. 6 with manslaughter in the shooting death of Leroy Dahl, Jr. in Bay St. Louis.

Page and Gordon are detained in Hancock county jail, Davis is in custody in Mobile, Ala. and the other three men are out on bond.

The list of 17 grand jurors chosen Monday for the January term of circuit court in Hancock County has been announced as follows:

Lawson A. Lee, Leroy J. Necaise, Dewey Earnest Holden, Edward J. Cook, Grant Edward Tingstrom, Jr., Fred Carl Johnson, Jr., Daniel C. Ferguson, Herman F. Lott, Sr., Carl Lawrence Ladner, Cornelius M. Lind, Jessie David Burch, Curtis E. Holman, Jr., Mrs. Barbara D. Cranmer, Everette Charles Peterson, John Leslie Schuengel, Murthron A. Ladner and Jerry R. Lee.

Judge Leslie B. Grant is presiding over this term of court.

Favre Given Sentence

A convicted felon, charged with six counts of possession of stolen property valued at $33,500, was sentenced to two years in the state penitentiary by Circuit Judge Leslie B. Grant in a circuit court trial Tuesday morning.

Wylie T. Favre, alias Tom Favre, pled guilty to the May 1972 charge of possession of three Lafitte skiffs valued at $22,500, one trailer and one tractor each valued at $4,500 and a Pontiac automobile, valued at $2,000 all stolen items.

Favre was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary on each of the six counts, the terms to run concurrently. Leniency on the sentences, which carry a maximum penalty of five years each, was recommended by the district attorney's office as Assistant District Attorney Harold DeMetz said Favre had cooperated with the state on information concerning others involved in the case.

Favre has already served more than seven months in the county jail pending trial on the six charges, that time to be deleted from his two year sentence.

Bay St. Louis municipal elections are right around the corner. Soon, candidates will begin coming out of the woodwork to announce their intentions to capture at least one of three major offices.

In keeping with the Echo tradition of exclusive interviews, one of our reporters spoke with Fain Larrikin, who is rumored to be keeping his thumb on the pulse of the people (at last count it was 30) in hopes of being elected mayor of the city.

The Echo now presents the interview in its entirety.

REPORTER: Mr. Larrikin, what made you decide to run for mayor of Bay St. Louis?

LARRIKIN: Well, I really had no idea of running but so many people asked me to run that I couldn't refuse.

REPORTER: What are your qualifications for the office?

LARRIKIN: I was born here and I love this place. I want to see this town progress and move forward. This is a great place to live and I want to see it stay that way.

REPORTER: It seems that in the future a mayor of any city will have to be very familiar with federal funds and federal programs. Do you have any experience with administering federal funds?

LARRIKIN: I have a great deal of experience. I worked closely with the federal program that came into this area after Hurricane Camille. Let's see what was the name of that outfit... Interim Upturn...mmm, no, Operation Assistance, that's it.

REPORTER: In what capacity?

LARRIKIN: Huh?

REPORTER: What did you do?

LARRIKIN: Well, first I filled out an application to get my house fixed for free. I kept in touch with those fellows for about a year but never did get the money. Seems as though I made a mistake about my income but you know how it is. Probably somebody's brother-in-law got all the money.

REPORTER: I see. Well, the mayor is also in charge of the police and fire department. Do you have any experience in these fields?

LARRIKIN: Yes, as a matter of fact, I have been an honorary Colonel on the Governor's staff for about 12 years. Before that, I served as a night watchman at the city pier. I tried to be an auxiliary policeman but they told me they didn't have enough badges to go around. As far as the fire department goes, I attend every fire in the city. It's kind of hard now, though, since they moved the fire whistle. I sure do miss that fire whistle.

REPORTER: Mr. Larrikin, do you know anything about running a city?

LARRIKIN: Well, that's a foolish question. You see me at every meeting of the board of supervisors, don't you? I attend every meeting and act sort of as an advisor to them. They have taken many of my suggestions and I consider it a citizen's duty to know as much about the government as possible.

REPORTER: Do you have any preference in the city commissioners races?

LARRIKIN: Commissioners? I thought they were called aldermen.

REPORTER: No, they changed the system to the mayor-council form of government.

LARRIKIN: Well, I'm sure for that. If I get elected I will vote for it - if it's for the good of the people.

REPORTER: What will you do if you lose the election?

LARRIKIN: I am for this community whether or not I win. This is a great place to live and I think the people need a leader. I want to see this community move forward.

If I don't get elected mayor, I won't let my qualifications go to waste.

I'll run for board of supervisors.

Program Effective At HNC Elementary

A review of the Title III-ESEA program now underway at Hancock North Central elementary grades shows the program to be effective, according to a letter from Ralph Brewer, director of the Division of Instruction, State Department of Education.

In the December 28 letter, Brewer said an on-site review of the program by Dr. Jack Gunn, assistant director in the Div. of Instruction and Dr. John Faulkberry from the Title III-ESEA office revealed pupils and teachers engaged in activities as scheduled under the provisions of the project. Pupils and teachers were interviewed on the work they were doing, the letter continued, and all those interviewed seemed to be actively engaged in learning activities.

Perhaps the most revealing data were results of achievement tests given to pupils in the sixth grade, Brewer stated, which indicated that the pupils had made more progress than is normally expected.

"In a program of individualized instruction, it is not always easy to relate class activities to those activities conducted in a traditional program," Brewer explained, therefore the achievement level of pupils becomes an increasingly important measurement.

In conclusion, Brewer lauded the Hancock North Central program and said that Drs. Gunn and Faulkberry felt the program should be given an opportunity to prove its effectiveness. Additional on-site visits will be made this school year, Brewer promised.

Six Qualify For Circuit Clerk Election

Six candidates have qualified to run in the Feb. 17 primary for Hancock County circuit clerk. A special election was called after the recent death of

Lamar Otis, circuit clerk since 1960. Those qualifying are Henry Otis, Joseph Dobson and Keith Ladner all of Bay St. Louis; Mrs. Carolyn Ring, Edwardsville; James C. Ladner, Dedeaux; and Michael Ladner, Kiln. Deadline for qualifying is Feb. 7 at 5 p.m. at the circuit clerk's office.

State Money Available For Road Projects

B.L. Broome, State Aid Road Division engineer, in Bay St. Louis Tuesday for bid openings for the Rotten Bayou bridge, told county supervisors that his department had some $35,000 in federal aid secondary funds now on hand which has been earmarked for two projects on the Kiln-Fenton-DeLisle road.

The $35,000 figure, Broome said, was estimated cost for the first phase of the planned project which calls for road grading and paving as well as repair of two bridges on the road which crosses Hancock County from Kiln to the Hancock-Harrison county line.

An additional $54,000 in federal money will be needed for completion of the second phase of the project, the engineer stated, but that money has not yet been received. An annual allocation of $20,000 is expected at the end of the fiscal year in July but the money often doesn't actually arrive until several months later, he explained.

When Will Violence End?

For two days the city of New Orleans was crippled by fear, a fear that resulted from physical violence, mental confusion and emotional upheaval.

A deep sadness pervaded over those who live in that city and those who have a fondness for the charm that is New Orleans.

Part of the tragedy lies in the fact that death and destruction came to a city so dedicated to life. One needs only to visit New Orleans during Mardi Gras or walk through the Vieux Carre on a Sunday afternoon to realize that there is within that city a happiness, a vibrancy that is unlike any other place.

The people of Hancock County suffered with the people of New Orleans. Our people are bound to that city, to its past, present and future. It was possibly the same empathy people in New Orleans experienced during the weeks following Hurricane Camille.

Because the nightmare touched so close, it perhaps will make us stop and realize that no city, no town, no community is immune to death by such violent means. Small towns are not entirely protected from the turbulence usually characteristic of big cities.

It is incomprehensible how this society has withstood the many acts of violence which have shaken this nation during the past ten years. Somehow we manage to continue looking forward with a seemingly boundless optimism.

But there is one question which haunts us.
When will it end?

We've Observed

The "Welcome to Bay St. Louis" sign is again standing near the Bay Bridge. Thanks to the city fathers and the ingenuity of Felix Seeger and Al Summy.

The parking lots at all Bay St. Louis shopping centers are getting more disorganized all the time. Shuffling through loose garbage to buy food seems totally incompatible.

Employees of a local drive-in carefully hosing and cleaning their parking lot each A.M., after the previous night's debris has already blown across the street and down the service road. Half a job isn't enough.

There's another side to the above picture. If the general public would use the trash bins provided, these problems would not exist.

A coast legislator has again proposed a "Wetlands Bill" to protect the Coast's marshes and seafood industry. Would he well to let our own senator know our feelings on this much needed legislation.

The Board of Supervisors are doing a much more effective job on county responsibilities within the limits of the cities than has been done in many years.

That the petition for a city manager type of government in Bay St. Louis is still being circulated. By signing you help give the people the opportunity to make a choice.

If we must have boarded up empty buildings, let them take the old Texaco station across from the Junior High School as an example. We commend the owner for his efforts to paint the boards as well as the building and clean the surrounding area.

That we can quit apologizing for the community in which we live: No millionaire in New York, for instance, could buy the trees that fill our town, the water views that surround it, let alone the birds, squirrels, rabbits, raccoons, etc., that live in near-by thickets and never cease to entertain us. We could even possibly survive without T.V.!

Dear Editor:

Isn't there somebody in this area who has a piano that isn't being used? There are two or three hundred Senior Citizens hereabouts who get a great deal of pleasure and companionship in singing the old songs, and it would be a real boon to them to have a decent piano to sing-along with. The one they have now is not a piano - it's a wreck! It would do your heart good to hear these elderly folks "give out" on a familiar ditty of the past. The thoughts, the memories that these old songs bring back, and the pleasure that the singing of them with others gives them, are better than medicine. If they had a real piano to lean them (and maybe cover up a few sour notes!) it would be of inestimable value to their morale. The Senior Citizens association will pay for the carage and tuning of your piano, if you will just lend it to them.

They all are hoping that some kind-hearted person with sympathy and good will for elderly people will volunteer for this much needed loan. If that person happens to be you, just phone Mrs. McDonald at 467-9291 - and many thanks!

E.S. Colling

PLEASE! PLEASE! PLEASE!
Return the stereo equipment taken from the Senior Citizens Center at Valena C. Jones Building!!!!

Have you any idea what this means to these old folks? Some of them have been housebound for years and for sometime now have been able to get out to enjoy programs given each Monday at Valena C. Jones Center. Without this equipment (radio hookup with loud speakers and microphone) a number of these folks cannot HEAR programs that have been thoughtfully and lovingly prepared for them by various volunteers in the community.

Whether you be ONE or MANY who has dealt this blow to this worthy program, may we plead with you to return this equipment to us? It is a NEW YEAR - make a NEW BEGINNING for yourself or yourselves. Just call us at 467-9281 or 467-9292 and tell us where we can retrieve this equipment and we will not ask questions! PLEASE.

March of Dimes

Trumpets In The Morning

by Perry D. Neal, Pastor,
First Baptist Church, Bay St. Louis

Sometime ago a sad story covered the world. In the great Miami International Airport the attendants at last noticed a lad of about fourteen who sat hour after hour in the same seat and never once moved about. The boy simply sat there and smiled a pathetic little smile and rolled his eyes. When the police were notified, they immediately had on their hands a puzzle.

The boy would not speak a word to the officers. He just sat there and smiled his sad smile and rolled his eyes. The officers needed to know something about him so they searched him. In a pocket they found three pennies and a small pack of paper tissues. That was all. There was no mark of identification whatever.

When news of the lad's plight reached the world a few hours later, the Miami police were swamped with calls from all over the nation. Anxious parents whose children were missing flooded the switchboards of Miami with urgent requests about the boy, each parent hoping, hoping that he would be his own long-missing child. One woman dashed by plane from Dallas to look at the youth. When she saw him, she burst into tears. He was not her missing child.

All of this information unspeakably stirs the heart. With the greatest pity and with profound sorrow we consider this child and his parents. They deserve our sympathy and they have it.

But may we look a step further. All over America and the world there are uncounted millions of lost teen-agers, lost in a way that would make the Miami boy's sad situation look like pleasure. Yet few parents - and almost none of the American Public - is at all interested in our multitudes of lost young people who are outside the family of God, not knowing Christ Jesus as Savior, and rushing headlong into an Eternity of deepness night.

JESUS is all we need to know about Heaven. He is the WAY-how we can get there. He is the TRUTH-why we know it is there. He is the LIFE-what we shall find there. The rest we shall know when we get there. The important question is, DO YOU KNOW JESUS?

Colling's Corner

By E.S. Colling

In the annals of the Civil War the names of five ships are prominent, the Monitor, the Merrimack, the Hartford (Admiral David Farragut's flagship), the raider Alabama, and the Star of the West.

The latter was built in New York by Commodore Vanderbilt to carry hopeful gold miners to Nicaragua on the first leg of their toilsome journey to the new gold fields in California. After several years of coastal operation, the Star of the West was in New York harbor in January, 1861, when the government made the decision to send supplies to the beleaguered garrison of Fort Sumter in Charleston harbor and the Star, chartered at $1500 a day, was hurriedly loaded with supplies and 200 armed men and left New York harbor at 9 p. m. on January 5th. She never reached Sumter, being turned back in Charleston harbor by the threat of Confederate guns in Fort Moultrie, and she returned to New York.

After the war began in earnest, the Star was used as a Union transport along the Gulf coast, but in April, '61, she grounded on a bar off the Texas coast and was captured by Confederate cavalry officers who rowed out to her, thus scoring the cavalry's only victory at sea. Taken to New Orleans, she served for two years as a hospital receiving ship; she also made a voyage to Cuba to attempt to pick up arms and ammunition, but apparently could not evade the Union blockade.

At the time of Farragut's assault on the Crescent City, the Confederate navy was building there a most formidable ironclad named Mississippi, for the defense of the city and the river. She was only partially completed when Farragut ran past the forts below New Orleans and captured the city in April, '62. The Star of the West was hastily loaded with all the gold and silver bullion from the New Orleans banks and sent upriver just ahead of the Union vessels. She reached Vicksburg on April 23 and there joined the forces rallying for the defense of that city. She was idle from then until February, 1863, when Grant made his first attempt to capture the great fortress of the Mississippi, by an attack on Haynes Bluff by way of the Yazoo and Tallahatchie rivers. To combat him, Gen. Loring with headquarters at Greenwood, started the construction of Fort Pemberton, a breaworks of dirt, logs and cotton bales, on a neck of land between the Yazoo and the Tallahatchie.

It was then decided by Gen. Loring that the Star of the West should be sacrificed to complete the obstruction of the river above Fort Pemberton. She was brought up from Yazoo City, stripped of everything down to the bare hull and anchored broadside of the current. Some 250 holes were drilled below her waterline, and Lt. A.A. Stoddard of Greenwood gave the signal to pull the plugs. The Star sank, but she fulfilled her last mission for the Confederacy and the channel was blocked. Two weeks later Grant abandoned his plan of attack.

Legislative Report

by EARL "BUCK" LADNER
STATE REPRESENTATIVE
HANCOCK COUNTY

The 1973 Session of the Mississippi Legislature convened Tuesday, January 2, with over 300 bills already pre-filed and assigned to committees. The Governor made an unprecedented "state of the state" address to a joint session within an hour after the gavel was sounded.

Legislators seem to be bent on reducing taxes this session instead of raising them. This turn of events is brought about because of a surplus on hand, plus additional revenues from the federal revenue sharing program. There are numerous bills already in committee advocating an increase in the exemptions for state income tax purposes, and for reducing the sales tax, or exempting certain items from sales tax.

grandchildren; 35 great-grandchildren; two great-grandchildren and 11 step-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at Catahoula Baptist Church with Rev. John O. Cuevas, pastor Catahoula Baptist Church and Rev. Lannie Wilbourn, pastor Shiloh Memorial Baptist Church officiating. Interment was in Mitchell Cemetery.

Riemann-Fahey Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Funeral services for Michael Theodore Fucich, 17, who died Monday, January 3, were held Wednesday afternoon from Riemann-Fahey Funeral Home followed by a Requiem Mass at St. John Catholic Church, Lakeshore, with Rev. Bernard McDonald, Pastor, officiating.

Interment was in Lakeshore Cemetery with Fritz Garcia, Tommy Ladner, Dale Lusich, Bill Corr, Donnie Bourgeois, Ray Ladner, Michael Schwall and Larry LaFontaine serving as pallbearers.

George Louis Seuzeneau Jr. died at 7:20 a. m. Sunday, January 7, at Hancock General Hospital.

Mr. Seuzeneau, a recently retired career executive with the United States Government, received numerous citations for his outstanding achievement during his government career including a citation from the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt for his work during World War II.

A graduate of St. Stanislaus College, he attended Loyola University of the South and taught personnel management at Tulane University. He was a member of Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church.

After his graduation from college he formed and traveled extensively throughout Europe with his own Dixieland Jazz band. Active in civic affairs, he was a past president of St. Stanislaus Alumni Association, past president St. Stanislaus Sideline Club, a member of Bay-Waveland Yacht Club Board and of the Knights of Columbus.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Clara Mary Barrios Seuzeneau, a son, George Louis Seuzeneau III, both of Bay St. Louis; four daughters, Mrs. Donald E. Lagarde Jr., Covington, La.; Miss Dianne M. Seuzeneau, New York City; Mrs. William R. Bullard,

Chances are, you never heard of the WHIRLYGIG and the WHIMMY DIDDLE. They are however, excellent examples of our clever Colonial forebears spinning ways with toys. The WHIRLYGIG was a toy which spun around when manipulated in a "surprising" way. The WHIMMY DIDDLE, looking little more than a notch stick with a propeller on top, could be set spinning by someone who rubbed it with a special "wand." One good turn deserves another. Give it a whirl. Wool was scarce in Colonial times. Sift settlers made and repaired bedspreads and covers with cloth patchwork. With lots of time and a dash of flair

TO THE VOTERS OF HANCOCK COUNTY, MISSISSIPPI:

I am taking this opportunity to announce my candidacy for the office of Circuit Clerk of Hancock County to succeed my late father, Lamar Otis.

My entire family join me in thanking you for the support you gave him in the past.

I have served as Deputy Circuit Clerk for over 8 years and would like to use this experience in helping the future progress of our county.

I regret that I will be unable to see all of the voters personally because of the many duties in the office, including the January Term of Court now in session. However, I hope that you will consider this as my personal appeal for your support.

My only pledge to you is to continue my father's policies and service to the best of my ability. I feel that anything less than this would be unfaithful to him and the trust of the people of Hancock County.

School Board

the Title IV-A program underway in the school system, for which three additional staff members are being hired. The school system has received $127,159 in federal funds to implement a program of guidance and testing, special education, case work and health services for an estimated 75 or more indigent and/or handicapped children.

The Title IV-A program will cover students in elementary, junior high school and senior high school levels, McCullough said. New staff members will include an additional special education teacher, a nurse and a social worker. Original plans for a Day Care Center were abandoned when anticipated funds were drastically reduced by Congressional allocation cutbacks.

The superintendent also informed the board that he plans to attend a January 24 conference in Jackson on early childhood education. School administrators, educators and state legislators are expected to attend the conference which will cover the various aspects of proposed reinstatement of kindergartens in public school systems.

Hancock County Native Heads Gulf Oil Company

James Lee, a native of Kiln, has been named president of Gulf Oil Corporation, the world's fifth largest oil company. At 51, Lee is the youngest president in Gulf's history.

His first association with the oil company came after Lee's graduation from Louisiana Polytechnic Institute in Ruston in 1942 when he joined the company's offices in Port Arthur, Tex. Seven years later Lee was transferred to Philadelphia, Pa. where he worked until 1959 when he was sent to Manila to organize operations for the company. After four years he was promoted to managing director in Japan, and three years later became head of Gulf's Kuwait Oil Company on the Persian Gulf.

Lee was sent to London in 1969 as president of Eastern Hemisphere operations. He traveled widely throughout the Far and Middle East supervising the company's expanding production and sales. In the summer of 1972 he returned to the United States as executive vice-president at the company's headquarters in Pittsburgh.

In December, 1972, Lee was named president of the company, succeeding B.R. Dorsey who was elevated to board chairman.

Lee's mother, Mrs. Lenoir Lee and his brother, Frank, still live in Hancock County. His father, Fitzhugh Lee died in 1963. Lee's other brothers are Dr. Robert E. Lee of Greenville, Miss., and Douglas Lee, an executive of the United States Geological Survey at Rolla, Mo. His two sisters are Mrs. Joyce Clark and Mrs. Marilyn Wiley of Piquette.

Lee's wife is the former Kathleen Edwards and they have four children.

BANQUET POSTPONED

Another week, another column. This past week was a dilly, bad water caused by recent rains, high tides caused by various winds and the weather on the cold side. However a few fish are always caught by accident. Over the weekend some speckles were caught in the canals down at Bayou Caddy, very few according to those who fish at this spot. They were not too big.

There is plenty time to catch speckle trout up Jourdan River, in Bayou LaCroix. Three Oak Bayou and Campbell's Bayou, both enter and upper providing the water clear at Pearl River, or which they are tributaries. Pearl River has been at flood stage for the past two weeks. Causing it to be bad all the way to Ross Barnett Reservoir at Jackson.

There are a few local bayous such as Bayou Phillip, Bayou LaCroix, Rotten Bayou, Log Bayou and others where some green trout (Bass) may be gotten provided its not too cold and the rain stops. Salt water fishing, for reds, sheepshead, croakers, etc., is pretty good this time of the year. Dead shrimp are mostly used to advantage. Red fish Oysters are getting more plentiful. The question is are they salty? Yes, when gotten out in deeper water. Had a sack that came from one of the boats which operates from Bayou Caddy. They were O.K.

Hunting will continue for the next few weeks for quail, rabbits, squirrels, woodcock, snipe, mourning doves, ducks and geese. Refer to hunting schedule for final closing dates. It has been too wet for the past week for hunting rabbits, quail, woodcock and snipe. Too much rain.

Was a pleasure getting a copy of "Fishing Tips" by Hek, Hunting and Fishing Editor, published by the Hek Enterprises. A lot can be learned by reading such a publication by such an experienced outdoors man. He knows his stuff when it comes to fishing and hunting.

Glad to have met T.L. Noyes, of Elmer Plumbingware Div., Wallace-Murry Corp. Don't think he is much at fishing or hunting. His main hobby is playing golf. Will have to get together, T. L.

Still waiting to get together with Lloyd Mutter for some fishing and frog hunting a little later. Lloyd lives in New Orleans but does his fishing along the Gulf Coast. He is a brother of Ben Mutter who enjoys fishing, crabbing, etc. Ben has been laid up with a bad foot, but is O.K. again.

One of the best things we have heard lately is that if you want to know about weather conditions just call 388-3200 any old time. The information is given pronto and is accurate.

Acting on a recommendation by marine biologist William J. Demoran, the Mississippi Marine Conservation Commission lowered the size limit on the taking of oysters from three tonging areas to two-and-a-half inches from Jan. 8 to Jan. 31 of 1973.

The recommendation passed by the commission will allow the taking of oysters from the St. Joe, Heron Bay and Waveland areas to facilitate oyster canners. The previous minimum size for this season has been three inches.

The recommendation called for the closing of Heron bay for dredging during the 23-day period which would "accommodate tongers and those canners who might wish to send freight boats to the area to buy tonged oysters as well as dredged oysters from St. Joe."

Demoran's recommendation noted the crop off of Waveland is plentiful as a result of the commission planting clam shells there in 1970. It also pointed out that the reef off Waveland has been set aside for tonging purposes only by legislative act. (Times-Picayune) down Bayou Caddy way. Caught some Saturday. He also makes his own baits. When conditions are right he will be there catching the speckle beauties.

Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission Director J. Burton Angelle this week applauded the support the commission's enforcement division has been receiving from the Louisiana courts where fish and game violations are concerned.

"Judges in St. Charles, Iberia, St. John, and St. Mary Parishes, just to name a few, have been supporting the commission's endeavors by handing down stiff penalties for wildlife and fisheries violations," the director noted. "It is a most welcomed cooperative effort, too, since in past years the punishment for such violations was extremely too light, in our opinion. We would like to see every judge in the state form agreement along the lines of heavier fines and sentences."

Angelle was referring to recent decisions handed down by Judges E.L. Guidry, Edward A. Delahoussaye, and Ruche J. Marino. "We hope the strong sentences continue," Angelle concluded, "because with them we are certain of a decrease in violations. The commission will strive to see that all lawbreakers are prosecuted to the full extent of the law." (Times-Picayune)

J. Burton Angelle, director of the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission, announced that a 10-day experimental oyster harvest from Lake St. Catherine and eastern Lake Pontchartrain will begin January 8 and run through January 18.

"This is a specialized harvest," Angelle explained, "not open to just anyone interested in harvesting a batch of oysters. Harvest will be effected by permit and licensing only, and only to fishermen with approved oyster bed leases."

John P. Ristroph of Plaquemine Parish, Dr. Cliff Comeaux Jr., and Luke Elliott of Baton Rouge, La., returned Sunday from a duck hunting trip to the Louisiana Marsh as the guests of August Rauxet on his boat. This is an annual trip and as usual they returned with ducks plus some real oysters. The weather was cold but the ducks were flying like nobody's business, said the tired foursome.

Nicky Rauxet and Micky Demoran also did some duck hunting out at the marsh over the weekend. Both are experienced hunters.

Clarence Beaudeau has retired and has a home in Waveland. Clarence is a salt water fisherman and enjoys crabbing. He came from New Orleans. Welcome to our section, fellow.

Nolan Kingston doesn't do much fishing or hunting but said he has been getting some nice oysters lately. Nolan is with Blossman Gas, Inc. He goes oystering on every occasion.

"DUCK-IDENT". -Lying on the Arizona semi-desert, I don't observe as many ducks as I used to. When I go on a duck hunt I like to review the various species for purposes of instant identification. Otherwise I might shoot an illegal duck or eat crow. Ducks Unlimited now has beautiful 22x36-inch charts featuring 26 species of duck. They are illustrated in color, in flight - both male and female. Numerous identification aids are provided. You can get a copy by sending $10 (or more) contribution to Ducks Unlimited National Headquarters, Dept. SA, P.O. Box 66500, Chicago, Ill. 60666.-P.B.

The above was taken from "Sports Afford" and printed for your information if you are a duck hunter.

ABOUT COFFEE AND TEA!

Morning coffee and afternoon tea... for millions of people around the world, a day is not a day without these refreshing beverages.

The earliest trace of coffee and tea are chronicled in legends. notes Compton's Encyclopedia.

Mexico observed that grazing sheep because coffee leaves after eating coffee cherries.

To stay awake during long nights of prayer, the monks began to eat the coffee cherries.

Humorous use of coffee Bill Tripp may have begun by the 16th century A.D. Tea is a much more ancient drink with its origins believed to be came time around 250 B.C. A Chinese Emperor, famous as a Divine Healer, always boiled his drinking water. One day, his servants built the fire under some trees. While the water boiled briskly, some of the toughest leaves blew into the kettle. Thus, so the legend goes, the delightful flavor of tea leaves boiled in fresh water was discovered.

Both tea and coffee became popular in the west during the 1600s. Coffee was introduced from the Middle East while tea was sent as a special gift to the English Queen in 1660.

Over the years, tea and coffee have played roles in history as well as being staples in the family pantry. The Boston Tea Party, when patriots dumped a shipment of tea into Boston Harbor, is famous for its story of a school child.

Familiar innovations, according to Compton's Encyclopedia, came in the 1930s. Instant coffee was developed early in this century and became popular after World War II. In 1904, at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition in St. Louis, a young English man found little market for hot tea.

Noticing the thirsty tourists crowded around a cold drink stand, he poured his hot tea over ice in tall glasses creating an instant success. During the same year, a tea merchant sent samples of his products to hundreds of customers in small silk bags. Normally, such samples were sent in small tins and the merchant thought his innovation would save him some money. To his surprise, orders poured in for tea in bags!

And that cup of coffee you enjoy with your morning newspaper? It's the start of a great day for you, a touch of history and a part of the billion-dollar international import-export trade market.

Material Needed On State's Culture, History

The University of Mississippi is contacting officials and other representatives of every city, town and hamlet in Mississippi in an effort to collect materials for a complete geographic representation of Mississippi's unique culture and history.

According to Miss Joyce Taylor, curator of the Mississippi Collection at Ole Miss, letters are being mailed to mayors, chambers of commerce, postmasters and representatives of historical groups in a state-wide program to obtain material relative to Mississippi's growth and progress.

"We have sent letters to every town with a mayor in south Mississippi and later will write to every community in the state," Miss Taylor said. "In some cases letters have been sent to chambers of commerce, local postmasters or to local historic societies. We are asking that any brochures, pamphlets or other information that would shed light on the area's history be sent to us for inclusion in the Mississippi Collection."

Miss Taylor is being assisted in the project by Mike Ginn of Columbia, a junior in the College of Liberal Arts.

"We are interested in such information as how a town got its name, its background and founding, the names of the area's early settlers, historic places, and events that occurred in its history," Mr.

China said. "In addition, we will be happy to receive any other information such as brochures on tourist attractions."

Miss Taylor said the goal of the project is to acquire material for a more complete geographic representation of Mississippi's history and progress through its cities and towns.

"It is such information that adds immeasurably to the Mississippi Collection's storehouse of knowledge on our state's history and progress," Miss Taylor said. Miss Taylor said anyone who wishes to contribute to the Mississippi Collection is encouraged to send materials to Mississippi Collection, University Library, University, Miss., 38677.
